ARMSTRONG COUNTY.

The County of Armstrong, of which the Borough of Kittanning is the County Seat, has a population of 67,885. It was formed in the year 1800 from parts of the territory which at that time composed the Counties of Allegheny, Westmoreland, and Lycoming.

The principal centres of population as reported, are the Boroughs of Kittanning and Apollo, the former having a population of approximately 8,000, and the latter, 5,000. a very small percentage of the population are foreigners.

The County is traversed by the Buffalo and Allegheny Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and the Pittsburgh, Shawmut and Northern Railway, affording trunk line connections to the East, and South, also to the ports of Lake Erie. The Pittsburgh and Allegheny Valley Street Railway, and the Kittanning and Leechburg lines of the West Penn Traction Company, traverse the County.

Natural gas is supplied in abundance from fields operated throughout the County, and the same is piped from these fields to the different sections of the State.

Good fuel and steam coal is supplied from mines in operation along the lines of railways mentioned above.

The natural resources consist of rich farm lands, coal, gas, oil, limestone, sand stone, and water in abundance. These natural advantages have not been fully developed, and free sites between river and railroad are available for manufacturing purposes.

The principal industries, of the county are the manufacture of building brick, basic pig iron, plate glass, sheet steel, woolen goods, and the mining of coal and limestone.

All classes of labor are available, the average rental for dwelling houses is of a low rate, the tax rate is approximately the average throughout the State of the different Counties, and insurance rates are fixed by the insurance companies according to hazard.

The commercial organizations, are the Business Men's Association of Kittanning, the Ford City Civic Club, and the Board of Trade of the Town of Apollo.

BEAVER COUNTY.

The County of Beaver, having a population of 78,353, was formed in the year 1800 from the Counties of Allegheny and Washington. The County Seat is the Borough of Beaver, with a population of approximately four thousand, the larger centers of population as reported, being the Borough of Beaver Falls, with a population of fifteen thousand, and the Borough of New Brighton, with a population of ten thousand.

The principal lines of railway, are the Pennsylvania and New York Central systems, which afford excellent transportation facilities, with connections to all parts of the country.

The County has excellent trolley facilities afforded by the Beaver Valley Traction Company, making Pittsburgh, Eastern Ohio, and the Ohio Valley easily accessible by this means of travel.

The Beaver river furnishes water supply for domestic use, and for manufacturing purposes. Plenty of natural gas is supplied from local territory, and fuel is supplied from deposits of coal, which are found in the County. Light, heat, and electric power are also furnished in the several towns of the County, and at normal rates.

The natural resources of the County are coal, natural gas, clay and other minerals.

The principal industries are the manufacture of pottery, brick, sewer pipe, glass, steel castings, nails, rivets, wire and various other products.

The proposed ship canal authorized by Act of Assembly passes through this County.

Labor is available, and the prevailing rates of wages are not excessive. Rents of houses for industrial classes, are normal and tax rates appear to be below the average. Inducements in the form of free land in parts of the County are offered for manufacturing industries.

The principal commercial organizations are the Beaver Valley Chamber of Commerce in the town of Beaver; the New Brighton Business Men's Association, and the New Brighton Chamber of Commerce in the Borough of Beaver Falls.

BEDFORD COUNTY.

This County was formed in the year 1771, from a part of the territory composing the County of Cumberland, having a population of about 38,879 at the last census, a very small percentage of the population being foreigners.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad, and the Hunt-ington & Broad Top Railroad. No trolley facilities are reported.

Its principal centers of population are the towns of Bedford, which is the County Seat, having a population of approximately 2,500, and the towns of Everett and Hyndman.

The town of Bedford is noted for its mineral springs, which are located in close proximity thereto. This noted resort is of national reputation, and is visited annually by people from all sections of the country.

The natural resources of the County are principally agriculture, fruit growing, and the mining and shipping of coal, manufacturing being carried on to a limited extent.

Its principal industries are farming, mining, fruit growing, handle factories, tanneries and the manufacturing of fruit products.

Rents and taxes are normal, and skilled and unskilled labor is available, but no inducements are offered for manufacturing purposes, although good sites with many natural advantages are available.

BERKS COUNTY.

Berks County was formed in the year 1752, from parts of the counties of Philadelphia, Chester, and Lancaster, and at the census of 1910 a population of 183,222 was reported. The principal center of population in the County, is the City of Reading, which is the County Seat, having a population of approximately 110,000. About ten per cent. of the population of the County are foreigners.

Railroad facilities are afforded by the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company and the Schuylkill Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, affording excellent transportation facilities to all points. Forty-three miles of street railway traverse the city of Reading, and eighty-four miles of suburban lines afford communication with the boroughs and towns throughout the County. Water facilities are good, natural gas is not found in the County, but manufactured gas is furnished at low rates.

Light, heat and power by electricity are supplied at reasonable rates, fuel is obtained from the anthracite coal fields in close proximity, and the bituminous coal fields not far distant.

The natural resources of the County are farm lands, iron ore, and small quantities of timber.

The industries of the County cover almost every manufactured product, including iron and steel, hosiery, and knit goods, hats, foundry and machine shops, hardware, cigars and tobacco, railroad shops, etc.

Good industrial sites are available, but no bonuses in the form of free sites, exemption from taxation, etc., are offered.

Skilled and unskilled labor is available, but female labor is generally employed. Rents and taxes are below the average.

The principal commercial organization reported, is the Chamber of Commerce of the City of Reading.

BLAIR COUNTY.

The County of Blair was formed in the year 1846 from parts of the Counties of Huntingdon and Bedford, reporting at the last census a population of 108,858, which has been materially increased since that date. Its principal centers of population are the City of Altoona and the Boroughs of Tyrone, Bellwood, Martinsburg and Hollidaysburg, the last named borough being the County Seat. A comparatively small percent. of the population are foreigners.

The railroad facilities of the County are practically all afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad and its branches. The Altoona & Logan Valley Railway Company affords trolley facilities, connecting several of the municipalities above mentioned.

The water supply is secured principally from mountain streams. Natural gas is not found within the County, but is available for the use in the City of Altoona and other municipalities, being piped from the West Virginia gas fields, and an ample supply is afforded at low rates. Light, heat and electric power are furnished throughout the County at rates below the normal. An abundant supply of fuel is available being secured from the bituminous coal fields in the immediate vicinity.

The natural resources of the County are limestone, ganister, building rock, sand, sand stone, clay, shale, and good farm lands. Its principal industries are the Pennsylvania Railroad shops and terminals, the manufacture of bar iron, brick, lime, bal-last, silk and silk goods, together with various other articles of commerce.

No inducements in the form of bonuses or exemptions are offered for new industries but available manufacturing sites, splendid transportation facilities, an available supply of skilled and unskilled labor, comparatively low rents, and an average tax rate, afford inducements for industrial activities.

Its leading commercial organizations are the Chamber of Commerce of the City of Altoona, and the Boards of Trade in the several Boroughs above mentioned.

BRADFORD COUNTY.

The County of Bradford was formed in the year 1810, from parts of the Counties of Luzerne and Lycoming, and at the last census reported a population of 54,526. A very small percentage of the population are foreigners. The principal center of population is the Borough of Towanda which is the County Seat having a population of five thousand.

Its principal railroads are the Lehigh Valley Railroad, and the Susquehanna & New York Railroad connecting with the Pennsylvania and Northern Central Railways, no trolley facilities being reported. Water supply is excellent and is secured from springs found within the County and from the Susquehanna River which flows through its boundaries.

Natural gas is not found within the County but an abundant supply of good fuel is available from its own coal mines and those of nearby Counties. Light, heat, and electric power are furnished at low rates.

Its natural resources are agriculture, mining, lumbering, etc. Its principal industries are silk mills, furniture factories, novelty works, glass factories and the manufacture of other articles of commerce. Good industrial sites are available. Skilled and unskilled labor is available but no surplus of female labor is found.

The prevailing rates of wages are about normal and rents and taxes about the average. The Borough of Towanda is the largest hay buying center in the east, and is a splendid market for all agricultural products.

The leading commercial organization reported is the Business Men's Association of the Borough of Towanda.

BUCKS COUNTY.

The County of Bucks, having a population of 76,530, was one of the three original Counties of the Province of Pennsylvania, and was established in the year 1692. The County Seat is the Borough of Doylestown, Bristol being one of the larger centers of population. About twenty-five per cent. of the population of the County are foreigners.

The principal transportation facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company, and the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company's Canal. Its trolley facilities are excellent, affording means of access to the various municipalities within the county and to all the surrounding cities and towns.

Water for domestic and manufacturing purposes, is largely secured from rivers and canals. Natural gas is not found in the County, fuel being secured from the anthracite-coal fields, which are connected directly by the Lehigh Valley Coal and Navigation Company's canal.

The natural resources are agriculture, the County being populated by a large and thrifty farm population. Manufacturing is carried on to a considerable extent, the principal industries consisting of worsted and carpet mills, leather, wall paper, wood-working, cotton bleaching, iron foundries, stove and machine works, and various other industries.

Skilled and unskilled labor is available, and rents are comparatively low, taxes being below the average. No inducements are offered for manufacturing industries, but desirable sites are available.

The close proximity of this County to the larger eastern markets is an additional advantage.

The principal commercial organization as reported, is the Bristol Chamber of Commerce.

BUTLER COUNTY.

The County of Butler was formed in the year 1800 from part of the County of Allegheny, and at the last decennial census, reported a population of 72,689. The principal center of population is the borough of Butler which is the county seat. There is a number of other progressive and prosperous boroughs throughout the county. About the average percentage of the population of the county are foreigners.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company, Pennsylvania Railroad Company, Pittsburgh, Bessemer & Lake Erie Railroad Company, and the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh Railroad Company. The Pittsburgh & Butler Street Railway Company, and the Pittsburgh, Harmony, Butler & New Castle Railway Company afford excellent trolley service between Butler and Pittsburgh, and various other towns throughout the county.

Its water facilities are good. Natural gas is produced in abundance throughout the county, and light, heat, and electric power are furnished at normal rates, its coal supply being secured from the coal fields of the western part of the State.

Its natural resources are petroleum and gas, together with excellent farm lands throughout the county. Its principal industries are the production of oil and gas, manufacture of cars, car wheels, together with various other industrial activities.

Skilled and unskilled labor is available, but no surplus of female labor is reported. Rents and taxes are normal. Good industrial sites are available in the different municipalities of the county, and inducements in the way of financial assistance, free sites, etc., are offered in the Borough of Butler.

The principal commercial organizations reported are the Boards of Trade and the Chambers of Commerce of the various boroughs and towns throughout the county.

CAMBRIA COUNTY.

Cambria County was formed in the year 1804 from parts of what at that time composed the Counties of Huntingdon, Somerset and Bedford, and at the last census reported a population of 166,131, the percentage of foreign population in the County being above the average. The principal center of population is the City of Johnstown with numerous boroughs throughout the County. The County Seat is the Borough of Ebensburg with a population of approximately 2,000.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania system, the Baltimore & Ohio, and the Johnstown & Etomv Creek Railroad, its trolley facilities by the Northern Cambria Street Railway Company, which connects a number of the boroughs and towns in the County.

Water for domestic and manufacturing purposes is taken from the various streams throughout the County and from wells drilled for that purpose.

Natural gas is not found in the County but is supplied from the West Virginia fields, and light, heat and electric power are furnished at rates below the normal. The County of Cambria, being in the center of the great bituminous coal fields, fuel is supplied from the mines throughout the County.

The natural resources are: coal, iron ore, flint and plastic clay, brick shale, lime stone, building stone, concrete materials, and glass sand.

Its principal industries are the steel industries and its by-products, the large plant of the Cambria Steel Company employing about 14,000 men, being located at the City of Johnstown, coal mining, the manufacture of radiators, brick, silk, stoves, cut-glass, etc.

Skilled and unskilled labor is available, an abundant supply of unskilled labor being reported.

Industrial sites are available and every assistance is given to new industries, except the offering of a bonus. With coal at the very door and electric power at rates that rival cities with hydro plants, every factory along the Conemaugh has the problem of heat and fuel already solved.

Rents are above the average and taxes are below the average.

The industries which use steel in any of its forms have that article delivered at the plant at a moderate cost.

Educational advantages are afforded by public schools of a very high standard, parochial schools and two business colleges.

The principal commercial organizations are the Board of Trade, and the Business Men's Association in the City of Johnstown and similar organizations in the various boroughs of the County.

CARBON COUNTY.

The County of Carbon was formed in the year 1843 from parts of Northampton and Monroe Counties, and at the last decennial census reported a population of 42,886. A very small per cent. of the population are foreigners. The principal centers of population are the boroughs of Mauch Chunk, Weatherly and Lansford, Mauch Chunk being the County Seat with a population of approximately 4,000. Its railroad facilities are afforded by the lines of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company and the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, its trolley facilities by the Eastern Pennsylvania and the Carbon Transit Companies.

Its water facilities are good. Natural gas is not found in the County, but light, heat and electric power are furnished at rates slightly above the normal. Its fuel supply is found in its own anthracite coal fields and those of the surrounding cities.

The natural resources of the County are: anthracite coal, farm products, sand, stone, etc.

Its principal industries are: coal mining, iron and steel and the manufacture of silk and silk goods.

Opportunities for new businesses are afforded, and inducements are offered in the form of free manufacturing sites and exemption from taxation for a period of years.

Labor of all kinds is available, except female labor, the scarcity of which is noted.

Rents and taxes are comparatively low, and wage rates slightly below the normal.

The commercial organizations reported are Boards of Trade in the several boroughs mentioned above.

CENTRE COUNTY.

The County of Centre was formed in the year 1800 from parts of the Counties of Mifflin, Northumberland, Lycoming and Huntingdon, and at the census of 1910, reported a population of 43,424.

Its principal centers of population are the Boroughs of Bellefonte and Philipsburg. Bellefonte being the County Seat.

The principal railroads are the Pennsylvania Railroad, and the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad systems, and the western end of the County is traversed by a trolley system centering in and about the Borough of Philipsburg.

The water facilities of the County are splendid, an abundant supply of pure water being supplied from springs and mountain streams, natural gas is not found within the County. An abundant supply of fuel is secured from the bituminous coal fields in the western section of the County, and from the anthracite fields not far distant.

Light, heat and electric power are supplied to practically the whole County at normal rates. The natural resources of the County are a splendid farming section, coal and lime, large quantities of lime and crushed stone being produced in the County.

Its principal industries are agricultural pursuits, the mining of coal; the manufacture of lime; crushed limestone, ballast, the manufacture of matches, together with various metal and other manufacturing industries.

Skilled and unskilled labor is available, and rents and taxes are normal. Free sites for manufacturing industries are offered in different parts of the County.

Pennsylvania State College, one of the leading educational institutions of the State, with a student body of more than three thousand, situated in the Borough of State College, offers exceptional educational advantages to residents of Pennsylvania, being a purely State institution, supported by, and under the patronage of the State of Pennsylvania.

The principal commercial organizations of the County, are the Board of Trade of the Borough of Bellefonte, and Chamber of Commerce of the Borough of Philipsburg

CHESTER COUNTY.

Chester County, having a population of 109,213, was one of the three original provinces of Pennsylvania formed in the year 1682, and is located in a rich agricultural section of the State. Its principal centers of population are the County Seat, which is West Chester, Spring City, Oxford, Downingtown, Kennett Square, Parkersburg, Phoenixville, and the city of Coatesville, and from best information obtainable, only a small percentage of the population are foreigners.

Railroad facilities are afforded largely through the Pennsylvania and Philadelphia & Reading Railway systems, affording easy access to eastern markets. The county is also traversed by numerous trolley lines, which are authorized to carry freight, as well as passengers, affording connection with the main lines of the railroads mentioned, and also making direct connection with the city of Philadelphia.

Water facilities for domestic and manufacturing purposes are good, and the supply abundant. Natural gas is not found in the County, the fuel supply being secured from both the anthracite and bituminous coal fields. Plentiful supplies of manufactured gas is available in the different centers of population, and light, heat, and electric power are furnished at normal rates.

The natural resources of the County are largely agriculture, but manufacturing is carried on to a considerable extent in a number of the towns in the County, the principal products being iron and steel, machinery, car wheels, tools, food products, and various other items of manufacture. Labor conditions are normal, wages and rents are about the average, and taxes generally below the average. No special inducements are offered for manufacturing industries, but the close proximity of the County to the eastern markets together with the splendid transportation facilities afforded, makes this County particularly well adapted for industrial activities.

Its commercial organizations are the Boards of Trades; Business Men's Leagues, etc., which are found in the various towns of the County.

CLARION COUNTY.

Clarion County was formed in the year 1839 from the Counties of Venango and Armstrong, and at the last decennial census reported a population of 36,638.

Its principal centers of population are the towns of Clarion, which is the County Seat, having a population of 3,500, and the Boroughs of New Bethlehem and East Brady. A very small per cent. of the population are foreigners.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Lake Shore and Pennsylvania Railroad connections. No trolley facilities are reported.

Water for domestic and manufacturing purposes is secured from the Clarion river, and light, heat and electric power are furnished at low rates.

The County is situated in the central gas belt, and gas is supplied from its own wells, fuel is plentiful, and right at hand, being supplied from the bituminous coal fields of the County.

Its natural resources are oil, coal, fire clay, and lumber, but these have not been fully developed.

Its principal industries are mining of coal, the manufacture of coke, the manufacture of glass, and other useful articles, the County affording ideal locations for small factories for the manufacture of brick and clay products.

Labor of all kinds is available, and rents and taxes are normal. No special inducements are offered for manufacturing enterprises.

The leading commercial organization reported, is the Board of Trade of the Borough of Clarion.

CLEARFIELD COUNTY.

The County of Clearfield was formed in the year 1804 from parts of the Counties of Huntingdon and Lycoming, and at the last census reported a population of 93,768. The principal centers of population are the city of Du Bois with a population of approximately 14,000, and the borough of Clearfield, which is the County Seat, and having a population of approximately 8,000 with numerous other boroughs throughout the County. A large number of foreigners reside in this County.

Its railroad facilities are the Pennsylvania Railroad, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh Railway, Buffalo & Susquehanna Railway, and the Franklin & Clearfield Railway Companies, affording connection with the system of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad, thereby furnishing access to all markets of the County. The city and suburban trolley lines afford means of transportation in the city of Du Bois and surrounding towns.

This County's water facilities are unsurpassed and unlimited supplies of pure water are available for domestic and manufacturing purposes.

Natural gas is furnished to the city of Du Bois by the United Natural Gas Company, but no facilities of this kind are found in the borough of Clearfield and other boroughs of the County.

Light, heat and electric power is furnished in the various towns of the County at reasonable rates. Plentiful supplies of fuel in the form of bituminous coal is furnished at low rates from the many coal mines of the County.

The natural resources of the County are coal, agriculture, fuel, clay, shale and glass sand. The principal industries of the County are agriculture, railroad shops, shipping and mining of coal, the manufacture of brick, sewer pipe, glass, silk and general articles of commerce.

Skilled and unskilled labor is available, and in some of the towns of the County, a surplus of female labor is reported.

Rents and taxes are normal, but no special inducements are offered to manufacturing enterprises.

The leading commercial organizations of the County are the Business Men's Association and the Travelers Commercial Club of Du Bois, and the Chamber of Commerce of Clearfield.

CLINTON COUNTY.

The County of Clinton was formed in the year 1839, from parts of the Counties of Lycoming and Centre, and at the last census reported a population of 31,545. Its principal centers of population are the City of Lock Haven and the Borough of Renovo, Lock Haven being the County Seat and having a population of approximately 10,000. A very small per cent. of the population of the County are foreigners.

The Pennsylvania Railroad and the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad systems, provide railroad facilities; and the Susquehanna Traction Company affords trolley facilities in and about the City of Lock Haven and vicinity.

Abundant supplies of pure water are available throughout the County. Natural gas is not found, light, heat and electric power are furnished to the different towns of the county at reasonable rates, abundant fuel being supplied from the nearby bituminous coal fields.

The natural resources of the County are farming, fire clay, coal mining, etc.

The principal industries of the County are agricultural pursuits, coal mining, the manufacture of paper, fire brick, leather, woven wire works, planing mills, railroad shops, silk and woolen mills.

Skilled and unskilled labor is available, but no surplus of female labor is reported.

Rents and taxes are normal and free sites, free water, and exemption from taxes are offered as inducements for manufacturing industries.

The principal commercial organization of the County is the Lock Haven Business Men's Association of the City of Lock Haven.

COLUMBIA COUNTY.

Columbia County was formed in the year 1813, from a part of the County of Northumberland, and at the census of 1910 reported a population of 48,467. The principal centers of population are the Boroughs of Bloomsburg, and Berwick, Bloomsburg being the County Seat and having a population of 8,000. Only a small per cent. of the population of the county are foreigners.

The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad, the Philadelphia & Reading Railway, and the Pennsylvania Railroad systems afford transportation facilities, trolley facilities are afforded by the North Branch Transit Company which connects several of the boroughs and towns of the County.

Water for domestic and manufacturing purposes in the several boroughs and towns of the County is taken from Fishing Creek and the Susquehanna River. Natural gas is not found in the County. Light, heat and electric power are furnished at rates approximately below the normal. Anthracite coal for fuel is obtained from the nearby coal fields.

The natural resources of the County are farming, coal, lime stone quarries, peat bogs, building stone, clay and sand deposits.

The principal industries of the county are mining of coal, car shops, foundry and machine shops, brick plants, furniture factories, silk mills, hosiery mills, the manufacture of matches.

Skilled and unskilled labor is available, rents are about the average and taxes are low, free sites being offered for industrial enterprises and financial assistance afforded in the form of stock subscriptions.

The public schools of the County are up to the standard; the State Normal School located in the Borough of Bloomsburg, being one of the leading institutions of its kind to be found in the State.

The leading commercial organizations reported are the Bloomsburg Business Men's Association, and the Civic League of the town.

CRAWFORD COUNTY.

The County of Crawford was formed in the year 1800 from a part of the County of Allegheny, and at the last census reported a population of 61,565. Its principal centers of population are the cities of Meadville, the County Seat, with a population of approximately 13,000, and Titusville sometimes called the queen city of the oil regions. A small per cent. of the population of the county are foreigners.

Its transportation facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania, and the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad systems, affording outlets to all parts of the country. Electric railways which traverse the county carry freight and express business, affording this means of transportation to various points within and outside of the county.

Its principal natural resources are fertile farm lands, oil, and gas, this county being in the western oil belt, and one of the most productive counties of the Commonwealth. Its principal industries are the production of oil and gas, the manufacture of iron and steel, corsets, and silk goods.

Rents and taxes are about normal, skilled and unskilled labor is available, but no surplus of female labor is reported. Allegheny College located at the City of Meadville, is one of the principal educational institutions in the western part of the State, and the public schools of the county are fully up to the high standard maintained throughout the State.

Its principal commercial organizations are the Boards of Trade of the cities above mentioned, with similar organizations in other municipalities in the county.

CUMBERLAND COUNTY.

The County of Cumberland was formed in the year 1750 from a part of the County of Lancaster, and at the decennial census in 1910, reported a population of 54,479. The principal centers of population are the Boroughs of Carlisle, Mechanicsburg, and Shippenburg, with other enterprising boroughs and towns throughout the county. The Borough of Carlisle with a population of approximately 11,000 is the county seat, only a small percentage of the population of the county are foreigners.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Cumberland Valley Railroad Company, a part of the Pennsylvania Railroad system and Philadelphia & Reading Railway Co. affording connections at Harrisburg with all sections of the country. Trolley facilities are afforded by the Valley Railways Company, carrying both freight and passengers. A supply of good water for both domestic and manufacturing purposes is available. Natural gas is not found within the county. Light, heat and electric power are furnished at normal rates, the fuel supply of the county being secured from the anthracite and bituminous coal fields of this State and West Virginia.

Its principal natural resources are a splendid farming section, the Cumberland Valley being noted throughout the country for its beautiful and productive farms. Its principal industries are railroad shops, the manufacture of boots and shoes, woolen goods, silk goods, hosiery, knit goods, and carpets.

Dickinson College, one of the oldest educational institutions of the State, and noted throughout the country, is located in the Borough of Carlisle, as is also the Indian School, under the support and patronage of the United States Government, and Irving College, one of the leading female colleges of the State is located at the Borough of Mechanicsburg.

Skilled and unskilled labor is available, but no surplus of female labor is reported, rents and taxes being reported as about the average.

The principal commercial organizations of the county are the Boards of Trade of the various towns and boroughs throughout the county.

DAUPHIN COUNTY.

The County of Dauphin was formed in the year 1785 from a part of the County of Lancaster, and in the year 1910 reported a population of 136,152. Its principal centers of population are the City of Harrisburg and the Borough of Steelton, with a number of large and prosperous boroughs and towns throughout the county. The average per cent. of the population of the county are foreigners. Harrisburg, the Capital of the State, is the County Seat with a population of 75,000. The Capital City is located on the Susquehanna River and is a central point on the lines of the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Companies.

Excellent trolley facilities are afforded in and about the City of Harrisburg and to the various boroughs and towns throughout the county.

Water, for domestic and manufacturing purposes, is available and in abundance. Natural gas is not found within the county. Light, heat and electric power are supplied at rates about the average.

Fuel is secured from the anthracite fields of the county and the bituminous fields not far distant.

Its natural resources are anthracite coal mines and a fertile agricultural section. Its principal industries are the iron and steel, car building, boot and shoe factories, together with numerous other industrial activities among which is the great chocolate industry located in the town of Hershey.

Opportunities for new enterprises are good, splendid industrial sites being available and in some instances inducements in the way of capital are offered.

Skilled and unskilled labor is available, but no surplus of female labor is reported. Rents and taxes are about the average, and the rates of wages are about normal.

Its principal commercial organizations are the Chamber of Commerce of the City of Harrisburg, and other commercial organizations in the various towns throughout the county.

DELAWARE COUNTY.

The County of Delaware was formed in the year 1789, from a part of the County of Chester, and at the last census reported a population of 117,906. Its principal center of population is the City of Chester, having a population of 40,000 with a number of other boroughs throughout the County, Media with a population of 3,653 being the County seat. A small per cent of the population of the county are foreigners.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania and the Philadelphia & Reading Railway systems, with a number of trolley lines for transportation of both passengers and freight.

Water facilities are good. Natural gas is not found within the county. Electric light, heat and power are supplied throughout the county at approximately normal rates. Its fuel supply is secured from the anthracite and bituminous coal fields in the northern and western sections of the State.

Its natural resources are principally farming, no other natural advantages being noted. The principal industries are the manufacture of iron and steel, ship building, textile and the manufacture of various other articles of commerce.

Skilled and unskilled labor appears to be available in parts of the county, and a sufficient supply of female labor is found to supply the demands.

Rents are about the average, and taxes below the normal.

Haverford and Swarthmore Colleges, both prominent educational institutions of the State, are located within the borders of the county.

The county, being situated on the Delaware River and in close proximity to Philadelphia, the great industrial center of the State, affords splendid advantages as to markets, both domestic and foreign.

Its principal commercial organizations are the Board of Trade, and the Chamber of Commerce of the City of Chester, with local organizations in other municipalities of the county.

ELK COUNTY.

The County of Elk was formed in the year 1848, from parts of the Counties of Jefferson, Clearfield and McKean, and at the last decennial census, reported a population of 35,871. Its principal centers of population are the Boroughs of Ridgway, Johnsonburg and St. Marys, Ridgway being the County Seat, and having a population of approximately 6,000. A small percentage of the population of the county are foreigners.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad, and the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh Railroad Companies, affording outlets to all parts of the country, but no trolley facilities are reported. Water for domestic and manufacturing purposes is available, and natural gas is found in abundance. Electric light, heat and power being furnished at very low rates. The fuel supply is secured from the coal mines of the county.

Its natural resources are coal, gas, clay and timber. Its principal industries are the mining of coal, fire clay, the production of natural gas, tanneries, silk mills, and the manufacture of machinery.

Inducements for manufacturing enterprises are offered in the form of free sites, capital, etc., and with an abundant of natural gas, cheap fuel creates favorable conditions for manufacturing activities, new industries being established within the county every year.

Skilled and unskilled labor is available, but no surplus of female labor is reported. Rents are reasonable, and the tax rate is somewhat above the average.

The principal commercial organization reported, is the Board of Trade of the Borough of Ridgway.

ERIE COUNTY.

The territory comprising the County of Erie, was originally a part of the County of Allegheny, Erie County having been incorporated as such in the year 1800, the last United States census returning a population of 115,517. The principal centres of population are the cities of Erie and Corry, and among the larger boroughs are Union City and North East. The foreign population in the county is approximately twenty per cent.

Five steam railway lines afford good transportation facilities, the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern, of the New York Central lines; the Philadelphia and Erie, of the Pennsylvania system; the Erie and Pittsburgh, of the same system; the Nickel Plate of the New York, Chicago and St. Louis system, and the Bessemer and Lake Erie Railroad.

Trolley facilities are excellent, covering the greater portion of the county, and making Buffalo, Chicago, Cleveland, and Toledo, accessible by this means of travel. Connections are available to Chautauqua and Jamestown in New York State, and Warren and Sheffield in this State, connecting lines to Detroit, Columbus, and Cincinnati. Pittsburgh lies on another connecting line. Southward from Erie on still other connecting lines, are Meadville, Cambridge Springs, and Edinboro, in Pennsylvania. These lines carry freight as well as passengers.

The water facilities are exceptional. A landlocked harbor four and one-half miles long, and one and one-half miles in width, making available transportation facilities reaching all points on the Great Lakes. Unlimited supplies of natural gas are available at reasonable rates. The principal fuel supply lies in the Pittsburgh bituminous district, and in the anthracite district of Pennsylvania. The county is well adapted for agricultural purposes, and in recent years wonderful development has been made in fruit raising, especially grapes, peaches, and other small fruits. The principal industries are the manufacture of engines, boilers, pig iron, electrical apparatus, rubber goods, paper, brass, pipe-fittings, aluminum ware, and kitchen utensils.

The opportunities for new industries are splendid as there have been very few failures among industrial concerns, unusual opportunities being presented for the location of small manufacturers, and their subsequent development, particularly in the metal industries, good industrial sites being available.

Skilled and unskilled labor is generally available, there usually being a slight surplus. Rents are moderate, satisfactory houses being available at rates ranging from twelve to twenty-five dollars per month. Tax rates are not excessive, and rates for water are reasonable. Electric light and power charges are moderate and the service up to the general standard.

The leading commercial organizations are the "Erie Board of Commerce," and the "Commercial Club of the City of Erie."

FAYETTE COUNTY.

The County of Fayette was formed in the year 1783, from a part of the County of Westmoreland, and at the last decennial census reported a population of 167,449. The principal center of population is the City of Uniontown, with other progressive and prosperous municipalities throughout the county. About twenty per cent. of the population of the county are foreigners.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad, Lake Erie Railroad, Monongahela Railroad, and the Buckhannon & Northern Railroad Companies, and its trolley facilities by the West Penn Railways Company. Its water facilities are fair. Natural gas is plentiful and supplied at low rates. Electric light, heat and power is supplied at the average rates, fuel being secured from the various coal and gas fields of the county.

Its natural resources are principally, coal and gas, the county being in the heart of the Pittsburgh coal field, and embracing the celebrated Connellsville coke region. Its principal industries are the mining of coal, and the manufacture of coke.

Skilled and unskilled labor is available, and a surplus of female labor is reported. Rents and taxes are normal, many good industrial sites are available, and inducements are offered to manufacturing enterprises.

The principal commercial organizations reported, are the Boards of Trade, and the Business Men's Associations of the various towns throughout the county.

FOREST COUNTY.

Forest County was formed in the year 1848 from parts of the territory composing the Counties of Jefferson and Venango, and having a population of 9,435, as reported at the last decennial census. The County Seat is the Borough of Tionesta, with an approximate population of eight hundred. More than the average per cent. of the population of the county are foreigners.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, but no trolley lines are found in the county. The water supply is abundant, and natural gas is produced and supplied from its own wells, its fuel supply, consisting of wood and coal, being secured in the county, and in the nearby county of Clarion.

Its natural resources are lumber, oil, gas, clay, and shale for the manufacture of brick, and the principal industries are oil drilling, gas producing, the manufacture of lumber, mining, etc.

Labor conditions are normal, rents reasonable, and taxes are below the average. No inducements are offered for manufacturing enterprises, but opportunities in the form of manufacturing sites, are available, for the manufacture of brick and clay products.

No commercial organizations are reported.

FRANKLIN COUNTY.

The County of Franklin was incorporated in the year 1784 from part of the County of Cumberland, and at the last decennial census reported a population of 59,775. The principal centers of population are the boroughs of Chambersburg and Waynesboro, Chambersburg being the county seat and having a population of approximately 12,000. A small percentage of the population of the County are foreigners.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Cumberland Valley Railroad Company which extends from the City of Harrisburg, Penna., to Winchester, Virginia, a distance of about 116 miles. A branch of the Western Maryland Railroad, known as the Baltimore and Cumberland Valley Railroad Company which extends into the town of Shippenburg where it connects with the Philadelphia and Reading Railway Company, its route passing through both Chambersburg and Waynesboro. Its trolley facilities are afforded by the Chambersburg and Gettysburg Electric Railway Company, and the Chambersburg, Greencastle and Weynesboro Railway Company these lines affording splendid facilities for transportation of both passengers and freight. The two roads radiate from the public square in the Borough of Chambersburg.

The natural resources of the county are splendid farm lands, and its principal industries are farming, fruit growing, and the manufacture of agricultural implements.

Skilled and unskilled labor is available, but no surplus of female labor is reported. Rents and taxes are normal, and good industrial sites are available in the boroughs and towns of the county, but no inducements in the form of free sites, exemption from taxation, financial assistance, etc., are reported as being offered.

Its principal commercial organizations are the Chambers of Commerce, and Boards of Trade of the various towns and boroughs throughout the county.

FULTON COUNTY.

The County of Fulton was formed in the year 1850 from part of the County of Bedford, and at the last decennial census reported a population of 9,703. This county is one of the smaller counties of the State, and its county seat is the Borough of McConnellsburg. A very small percentage of the population of the county are foreigners.

No railroad or trolley facilities are reported. Its water supply is abundant, but no natural gas is found within the county. Light, heat and electric power are furnished at normal rates. Its fuel supply is secured from the nearby coal fields.

heat and electric power are furnished at normal rates. Its fuel supply is secured from the nearby coal fields.

Its natural resources are good farm lands, manufacturing being carried on to a limited extent owing to lack of transportation facilities. Skilled and unskilled labor is available as is also female labor. Rents and taxes are normal, no inducements for manufacturing enterprises, in the form of free sites, exemption from taxation, or financial assistance are reported.

The principl commercial organization reported is the Board of Trade of the Borough of McConnellsburg.

GREENE COUNTY.

Greene County was formed in the year 1796, from a part of the County of Washington and at the last census, reported a population of 28,882. Waynesburg, the county seat, is the principal center of population having a population of approximately 5,000. A small percentage of the population of the county are foreigners.

Its railroad facilities are the Waynesburg & Washington Railroad Company, a part of the Pennsylvania system. No trolley facilities are reported. Its water facilities are largely the several creeks throughout the county.

Natural gas is produced in the county in large quantities, 800 productive wells being reported, the county supplying gas to the entire Monongahela Valley and to many towns as far east as Johnstown and as far west as Columbus, Ohio. The entire county is underlaid with three veins of bituminous coal, fuel being supplied in abundance from the various mines throughout the county.

Its natural resources are gas, oil, coal, and agriculture.

Its principal industries are farming, the mining of coal, production of oil and gas and the manufacture of coke.

Skilled labor is not available as little manufacturing is carried on within the county. Unskilled labor is available at normal rates of wages; no surplus of female labor is reported.

Rents and taxes are normal, and good industrial sites are available. Opportunities for new businesses are good but no special inducements are offered.

The leading commercial organization reported is the Board of Trade of the Borough of Waynesburg.

HUNTINGDON COUNTY.

The County of Huntingdon was formed in the year 1787, from a part of the County of Bedford, and at the last census reported a population of 38,304. Approximately five per cent. of the population are foreigners. The principal center of population in the county, is the Borough of Huntingdon, which is the County Seat, having a population of 6,861, with a number of smaller boroughs and towns throughout the county.

Railroad facilities are afforded by the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Huntingdon & Broad Top Railroad Companies, and the street railway in the Borough of Huntingdon is the only trolley line in the county.

Its water facilities are provided by the Juniata River, and various other streams in the county. Natural gas is not found in the county but fuel in the form of bituminous coal is easily available, and excellent power facilities are furnished by dams on the Juniata River, and thereby light, heat and electric power are furnished at very low rates.

The natural resources of the county are splendid farms, large deposits of gannister rock, and bituminous coal. The principal industries as indicated, are coal mining, agricultural pursuits, the manufacture of blank books, paper, and iron foundries. The natural resources of the county are not fully developed.

Labor is available, rents and taxes are normal and inducements for industries are offered in the form of free sites for manufacturing purposes.

The leading commercial organization of the county is the Chamber of Commerce, of the borough of Huntingdon.

INDIANA COUNTY.

The County of Indiana was formed in the year 1803 from parts of the Counties of Westmoreland and Lycoming, and in the year 1910 reported a population of 66,210 now reported as 72,000. The principal center of population reported, is the Borough of Indiana which is the County Seat and having a population of approximately 7,000. About twelve per cent. of the population of the county are foreigners.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh Railroad, the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad, and the Buffalo & Susquehanna Railroad Companies, and its trolley facilities by the Indiana County Street Railway Company having about thirty-five miles of track connecting various towns throughout the county.

Its water facilities are good. Natural gas in abundance is found within the county, and light, heat and electric power are furnished at low rates. Good fuel is available from its own coal fields covering about five hundred thousand acres, and approximately one hundred operations are found within the county.

The natural resources of the county are coal, lumber, agriculture. Its industries are diversified including the mining of coal, the manufacture of lumber, agricultural pursuits, and other industrial and manufacturing activities.

A good supply of skilled and unskilled labor is found, and about the average supply of female labor is available. Rents are normal and taxes about the average. Its principal commercial organization is the Chamber of Commerce of the Borough of Indiana.

JEFFERSON COUNTY.

Jefferson County was formed in the year 1804, from part of the County of Lycoming, and at the last decennial census reported a population of 63,090. The principal centers of population are the Boroughs of Punxsutawney, Reynoldsville, and Brookville with other prosperous boroughs throughout the county. Brookville being the County Seat, and having a population of 3,500. Approximately twenty per cent. of the population of the county are foreigners.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad, the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad, the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh Railroad, and the Pittsburgh, Shawmut & Northern Railroad Companies whose lines traverse the county, and its trolley facilities by the Jefferson Traction Company which connects a number of the towns and boroughs of the county by this means of travel. The water facilities of the county appear to be good, and an abundant supply of natural gas is available, fuel being secured from the bituminous mines in operation throughout the county, light, heat and electric power are furnished at low rates.

The natural resources are coal, gas, clay, sand, timber and good farm lands. The principal industries are tanning, asbestos manufacturing, silk weaving, blast furnaces, glass manufacturing, and mining of coal.

All kinds of skilled and unskilled labor is available but no surplus of female labor is reported. Rents are comparatively low and taxes about normal.

The principal commercial organizations are the Chamber of Commerce, and the Business Men's Association of Punxsutawney, and the Business Men's Association of Reynoldsville, and the Community Club of the Borough of Brookville.

JUNIATA COUNTY.

The County of Juniata was formed in the year 1831 from part of the County of Mifflin, and at the last decennial census reported a population of 15,013. The principal centers of population are the boroughs of Mifflintown and Port Royal, with other boroughs throughout the county. A small percentage of the population of the county are foreigners.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, no trolley facilities being reported within the county. An abundant supply of good water for domestic and manufacturing purposes is available, but natural gas is not found within the county. Light, heat and electric power are furnished at normal rates. Its fuel supply is secured from the anthracite and bituminous coal fields of the State.

Its natural resources are a good farming community. Its principal industries are farming, fruit growing, railroad shops, together with other industrial activities.

Skilled and unskilled labor is available, but no surplus of female labor is reported. Rents and taxes are normal, but no inducements in the form of free sites, exemption from taxation, or financial assistance are reported as being offered for manufacturing enterprises.

Its principal commercial organization is the Board of Trade of the Borough of Mifflintown.

LACKAWANNA COUNTY.

The County of Lackawanna is the most recently formed county in the State, having been incorporated in the year 1878 from a part of the County of Luzerne, and having made such rapid strides in growth, that at the last decennial census a population of 259,507 was reported, and at this time the population is approximately 375,000. Its principal centers of population are the cities of Scranton and Carbondale, Scranton being the County Seat and reporting a population of 143,000, being one of the two second-class cities in the State. The percentage of foreign population in the county is above the average.

The county has splendid railroad facilities afforded by the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad, the Delaware & Hudson Railroad, Central Railroad of New Jersey, and the Erie Railroad with other connecting lines. Its trolley facilities are afforded by the Scranton Railway Company, the Carbondale & Wilkes-Barre Railway Company, the Northern Electric Railway Company, and the Scranton & Binghamton Railway Company. An unlimited supply of water, unsurpassed in quality, is available for domestic and manufacturing purposes.

Natural gas is not found within the county but abundant supplies of fuel are available from the anthracite fields within its boundaries, light, heat and electric power being furnished at normal rates.

Its natural resources are principally anthracite, some timber, and farm lands. All these are fully developed. Its principal industries are coal mining, silk throwing, and weaving, the manufacture of heavy hardware, stoves, furnaces, pumps and other commercial products. Good industrial sites are available and the Scranton Board of Trade, the principal commercial organization of the county, has command of a fund of more than one million dollars for investment in the securities of desirable manufacturing concerns.

Skilled and unskilled labor is available but no surplus of female labor is reported. Rents and taxes are reasonable and the prevailing rate of wages appears to be about the average.

The leading commercial organizations reported are the Scranton Board of Trade, the Commercial Association, and the Retail Merchants Association, all of Scranton.

LANCASTER COUNTY.

The County of Lancaster was formed in the year 1729, from part of the County of Chester, and at the last decennial census reported a population of 167,029. The principal center of population is the City of Lancaster which is the County Seat and having a population of 50,000 with other large and prosperous municipalities throughout the county. A very small per cent. of the population of the county are foreigners. Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad, and the Philadelphia & Reading Railway, and its trolley facilities are excellent, being furnished largely by the Conestoga Traction Company. An abundant water supply is afforded but no natural gas is found within the county. Light, heat and electric power are furnished at comparatively low rates. Its fuel supply is secured from the bituminous and anthracite coal fields in other sections of the State.

Its natural resources are principally, agricultural, this county being noted throughout the country for its many excellent and productive farms. Its principal industries are farming, the production of tobacco, together with a large number of manufacturing plants covering almost every manufactured product.

A supply of skilled and unskilled labor is available, but no surplus of female labor is reported. Rents are comparatively low and taxes normal.

Franklin & Marshall College, one of the leading educational institutions of the State, is located in the city of Lancaster, and a State Normal School in the borough of Millersville. The public schools of the county are of a very high grade. One of the notable institutions of the country, the Masonic Home of Pennsylvania, which promises eventually to become one of the greatest institutions of this kind in the world is located at the borough of Elizabethtown on the line of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The principal commercial organizations reported, are the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce, the Merchants Association, the Rotary Club, the Young Men's Business Association of the city of Lancaster, the Young Men's Business Association of the borough of Elizabethtown, the Young Men's Business League, and the Merchants Association of the borough of Lititz.

LAWRENCE COUNTY.

The County of Lawrence was formed in the year 1849 from parts of the Counties of Beaver and Mercer, and at the last census reported a population of 70,031. The principal center is the city of New Castle with a population of 42,000. Twenty per cent. of the population reported are foreigners.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Buffalo Rochester & Pittsburgh Railroad, the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad, and the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, with splendid trolley facilities to Youngstown and points west, Sharon, Butler, Beaver, Pittsburgh and points south.

Water for domestic and manufacturing purposes is taken from springs, wells, and streams throughout the County. Natural gas is supplied from the West Virginia gas fields at low rates, and light, heat, and electric power at rates below the normal.

Its natural resources are farm lands, limestone, etc. The principal industries of the County are the manufacture of iron, steel, tin, cement, and lime.

Industrial advantages are numerous, plenty of water, fine freight facilities, and ideal labor conditions, but no inducements in the form of bonuses, exemption etc., are offered for new manufacturing industries.

All kinds of labor appears to be available, rents are normal, and the tax rate about the average.

The leading commercial organizations noted, are the Board of Trade, the Rotary Club, and the Retail Grocers Association of the city of New Castle.

LEBANON COUNTY.

The county of Lebanon was formed in the year 1813, from parts of the counties of Dauphin and Lancaster, and at the last decennial census, reported a population of 59,505. Its principal center of population is the city of Lebanon with numerous progressive and prosperous boroughs throughout the county. About the average percentage of the population of the county are foreigners.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company, and the Cornwall & Lebanon Railroad Company affording a connection with the Pennsylvania Railroad at Conewago, and its trolley facilities by various electric railway companies in and about the city of Lebanon, and connecting the various boroughs and towns throughout the county, these lines carrying both freight and passengers.

The natural resources of the county are a fertile agricultural section, iron ore, and limestone. Its principal industries are the manufacture of iron and steel, chains, boots and shoes, hosiery, cigars, knit goods, silks, and novelties.

Skilled and unskilled labor is available, but no surplus of female labor is reported. Rents and taxes are normal, but no inducements in the form of free manufacturing sites, exemption from taxation, or financial assistance, is reported as being offered for manufacturing enterprises.

Its principal commercial organizations are the Boards of Trade, and the Chamber of Commerce of the various boroughs and towns throughout the county.

LEHIGH COUNTY.

The County of Lehigh was formed in the year 1812 from a part of the County of Northampton, and at the last census reported a population of 118,832. Its principal center of population is the city of Allentown with a population of 65,000 with numerous boroughs located throughout the County. Possibly ten per cent. of the population of the County are foreigners.

Railroad facilities are afforded by the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company, Central Railroad of New Jersey, and the Perkiomen Railroad, a part of the Pennsylvania system, and its trolley facilities, by the Reading Traction Company and the Lehigh Valley Transit Company, by means of which all the principal cities and towns in the eastern part of the state may be reached.

Water for domestic and manufacturing purposes, is supplied from the Lehigh Canal and various springs and streams throughout the County.

Natural gas is not found in the County, but light, heat, and electric power are supplied at low rates. Fuel is secured from the hard coal fields in the nearby counties.

The natural resources are agriculture, iron ore, slate, and cement deposits.

The principal industries are the manufacture of silk, cigars, furniture, iron work, slate, and cement in large quantities.

No bonus is offered to manufacturing industries, but new manufacturing enterprises are constantly forming and new plants being erected.

Skilled labor, principally in the iron industries, is available as is also unskilled labor, but no surplus of female labor is reported.

The principal commercial organization reported is the Chamber of Commerce of the city of Allentown.

LUZERNE COUNTY.

The County of Luzerne was formed in the year 1786 from part of the County of Northumberland, and at the last decennial census, reported a population of 342,186. Its principal centers of population are the Cities of Wilkes-Barre, with a population of approximately 75,000, and the Cities of Hazleton and Pittston, Wilkes-Barre being the County Seat.

Its principal railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Delaware Lackawanna & Western Railroad, the Delaware & Hudson, and the New Jersey Central Railroads. Excellent trolley facilities are afforded by the various electric railways which traverse practically the whole County.

Its water facilities are first class, water being supplied for manufacturing and domestic purposes at the average rate. natural gas is not found within the County. Electric light, heat and power are furnished at reasonable rates in the various cities and towns of the County.

Fuel is supplied from the anthracite mines within the borders of the County and nearby Counties.

The natural resources are principally anthracite coal, the coal mines of the Wyoming Valley being regarded as among the best in the State. Its principal industries are the mining of coal, the manufacturing of hosiery and knit goods, silk, machinery.

Good industrial sites are available, but no inducements are offered for manufacturing enterprises.

Skilled and unskilled labor is available, no surplus of female labor being reported, rents and taxes are about normal and wages about the average.

Its principal commercial organizations are the Boards of Trade and other similar organizations in the various cities and towns throughout the County.

LYCOMING COUNTY.

The County of Lycoming, one of the original Counties of the State, was formed in the year 1795, from a part of the territory then composing the County of Northumberland, and at the last census, the population was approximately 81,000. Its principal centers of population are the City of Williamsport, the Boroughs of Jersey Shore and Muncy, Williamsport, being the County Seat. A very small percentage of the population are foreigners.

Railroad facilities are afforded by the Philadelphia & Erie Railroad, a branch of the Pennsylvania system; the New York Central Railroad system; the Philadelphia & Reading Railway, and the Northern Central Railway, affording transportation facilities in all directions. Good trolley facilities are afforded in and about the City of Williamsport by the Williamsport Passenger Railway Company.

The Borough of Jersey Shore, located on the New York Central system, is connected with the Pennsylvania by the Antes-Fort Railroad Company, an electric railway company.

An abundant supply of good water is available in all parts of the County, but natural gas is not found in the County, fuel being secured from both the anthracite and the bituminous fields, either of which are of easy access.

The natural resources of the County, are largely agricultural, but manufacturing is carried on to a considerable extent in the larger centers of population. The principal industries are the manufacture of furniture and other woodwork, iron and steel manufacture, the manufacture of shoes, silks, woolen goods and novelties.

Rents are reasonable, labor conditions normal, and a supply of skilled and unskilled labor is available. Banks are liberal toward established manufacturers, and assist them in expanding their enterprises. Substantial industries can secure financial assistance through the Board of Trade, and many available sites are offered for manufacturing purposes.

Dickinson Seminary, one of the prosperous preparatory educational institutions of the State, is located in the City of Williamsport, and offers exceptional opportunities in advanced courses along many lines of educational interest, and the public schools of the County are of a high standard.

The leading commercial organizations, are the Board of Trade, and the Manufacturers Club of the city of Williamsport.

McKEAN COUNTY.

The County of McKean was formed in the year 1804 from part of the County of Lycoming, and in the census of 1910 reported a population of 47,863. The principal centers of population are the City of Bradford and the Borough of Kane. The County Seat is Smethport with a population of approximately 1,800. A small percentage of the population are foreigners.

Railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh Railroad, the Erie Railroad and the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. Its trolley facilities are afforded by the Western New York and Pennsylvania Traction Company.

Water for domestic and manufacturing purposes is had in abundance at exceptionally low rates. Light, heat and electric power are furnished at very low rates, as is natural gas which is plentiful. Fuel is supplied from the coal fields of the nearby counties.

Its natural resources are oil, gas, stone, and fire clay, with an apparently inexhaustible deposit of shale from which a very high grade of brick and paving blocks are made. The principal industries are the manufacture of engines, pipe couplings, cutlery, drilling tools, wood acid, alcholid, brick, paving blocks.

Skilled and unskilled labor is available and in some parts of the County a surplus of female labor is reported.

Rents are comparatively low and taxes about the average.

Its principal commercial organizations are the Bradford Business Men's Association, the Board of Trade, Business Men's Association, and the Board of Trade of the Borough of Kane, and other similar organizations throughout the County.

MERCER COUNTY.

The County of Mercer, having a population of 77,699, was formed in the year 1800, being originally a part of the County of Allegheny.

Its principal centers of population are the town of Greenville, and the town of Mercer which is the County Seat, the former having a population of approximately 8,000, and the latter, 2,000. A small percentage of the population being foreigners.

Railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad, and the Erie, Bessemer, and New York Central Railroads. No trolley facilities are reported. Natural gas from the Mercer and Venango fields, is available. The bituminous coal fields of the County afford an abundant supply of fuel for domestic and manufacturing purposes. Light, heat, and electric power are furnished at ordinary rates.

The natural resources, are coal, oil, gas, limestone, building stone, and timber, also, fine farming land, especially adapted to the dairy business, and its principal manufacturing industries, are the manufacture of stoves, iron and steel, silk products, cars, structural iron, brooms. All kinds of labor are available, and wages about the standard rate.

Rents are normal, and inducements are offered for industrial operations in the form of free sites for this purpose.

The principal commercial organizations, are the Board of Trade of the Town of Greenville, and the Board of Trade and Civic Club, of the town of Mercer.

MIFFLIN COUNTY.

The County of Mifflin was formed in the year 1789, from parts of the Counties of Cumberland and Northumberland, and at the last census reported a population of 27,885. Its principal center of population is the borough of Lewistown which is the County seat, and having a population of approximately 10,000. A very small percentage of the population of the County are foreigners.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania system, and the Lewistown & Reedsville Electric Railway Company affords trolley facilities in the borough of Lewistown and to surrounding towns.

An abundant supply of pure water is furnished for domestic and manufacturing purposes. No natural gas is found in the County. Light, heat and electric power are furnished at reasonable rates and fuel is secured from both the anthracite and bituminous coal fields, either of which is of easy access.

The natural resources of the County are farm lands, white sand, shale, gannister rock, limestone.

Its principal industries are agriculture, the manufacture of iron and steel, and various other metal products, silk mills and knitting mills.

Skilled and unskilled labor is available at average rate of wages, rents being normal and taxes below the average.

Good industrial sites are available and reasonable inducements are offered to manufacturing enterprises, industrial advantages and opportunities which give desirable openings to intending investors.

The leading commercial organizations reported are the Business Mens' Association, and the Board of Trade of the borough of Lewistown.

MONROE COUNTY.

This County, having a population of 22,941, was formed in the year 1836 from parts of the Counties of Northampton and Pike. Its County Seat is the Borough of Stroudsburg, with a population of approximately 6,000. The principal center of population is the Borough of Stroudsburg. About five per cent. of the population are foreigners.

Railroad facilities are afforded by the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad; Pennsylvania, Erie and Delaware Valley Railroads, affording excellent train service between Stroudsburg, New York and Philadelphia. The County is traversed by the Stroudsburg Passenger Railway, the Stroudsburg Water Gap, and Portland Street Railway Companies.

There are no navigable streams in the County, but a good supply of mountain water is available. An abundant supply of fuel is available from the anthracite coal mines at Scranton and vicinity, about fifty miles distant.

Light, heat and electric power are furnished at normal rates, with material reductions for large consumption.

The natural resources of the County are principally farming, and the industries are car shops, iron foundries, wood manufacturing, woolen and silk mills. Many excellent industrial sites are available, located along the lines of railroads in such a manner as to make railroad shipping facilities very excellent.

The tax rate is exceedingly low, and a supply of skilled and unskilled labor is available, average rental of dwelling houses being from ten to twenty-five dollars per month.

The principal commercial organizations, are the Stroudsburg Industrial Club; Manufacturers Association, and the Stroudsburg Mercantile Association.

MONTGOMERY COUNTY.

The county of Montgomery was formed in the year 1784, from a part of the county of Philadelphia, and at the decennial census of 1910, reported a population of 169,570. The principal centers of population are the boroughs of Norristown and Pottstown, with numerous other prosperous and progressive municipalities throughout the county, Norristown with a population of approximately 28,000 being the county seat. About the average percentage of the population of the county are foreigners.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad, and the Philadelphia & Reading Railway systems, and practically the whole county is traversed by electric railways affording transportation facilities to the city of Philadelphia, and to the various cities and towns in the eastern part of the State. An abundant supply of good water for domestic and manufacturing purposes is found throughout the county, but natural gas is not found within the county. Light, heat, and electric power are furnished at normal rates. Its fuel supply is secured from the anthracite and bituminous coal fields of the State.

Its natural resources are rich farm lands, limestone, shale and clay. Its principal industries are the manufacture of iron and steel, brick, asbestos products, rubber goods, stoves and ranges, hosiery, and knit goods and silks.

Skilled and unskilled labor is available, but no surplus of female labor is reported. Rents and taxes are normal but no inducements in the form of free sites, exemption from taxation, or financial assistance are reported as being offered for manufacturing enterprises.

The principal commercial organizations are the Boards of Trade and the Chambers of Commerce in the several boroughs and towns within the county.

MONTOUR COUNTY.

The County of Montour was formed in the year 1850 from part of the county of Columbia, and at the last decennial census, reported a population of 14,868. The principal center of population is the borough of Danville which is the county seat and having a population of approximately ten thousand. A very small percentage of the population of the county are foreigners.

Its railroad facilities are exceptional, being located on the line of the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Philadelphia & Reading Railway, and the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad Companies, affording transportation facilities to all parts of the country. Two trolley lines are found within the county, one purely local in and about the borough of Danville, and the other connecting the various towns and boroughs along the north branch of the Susquehanna River.

Its water facilities are good, and the rates for domestic and manufacturing purposes low. Natural gas is not found within the county. Fuel is secured from the anthracite mines in the nearby counties.

Its natural resources are splendid, being one of Pennsylvania's richest agricultural sections. Iron ore of a low grade is also produced. Its principal industries are the manufacture of iron, silk throwing, hosiery, and knit goods.

No special inducements are offered for manufacturing industries other than cheap water and electricity at low rates, together with the advantages of cheap fuel from the coal fields of adjoining counties. Wage rates are about the average, and taxes normal, no surplus of labor being reported.

The principal commercial organization reported, is the Business Men's Association of the borough of Danville.

NORTHAMPTON COUNTY.

The County of Northampton was formed in the year 1752 from a part of the County of Bucks, and at the last census reported a population of 127,667 about twenty-five per cent. of which are foreigners. The principal centers of population are the cities of Easton and South Bethlehem and the borough of Bangor with other boroughs and towns throughout the County.

The railroad facilities are afforded by the Lehigh Valley Railroad, the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad, the Pennsylvania Railroad, the New Jersey Central Railroad, the Lehigh and Hudson River Railroad, the Bangor & Portland Railroad and four local lines. Trolley lines to Philadelphia, Bath, Bethlehem, South Bethlehem, Bangor, Nazareth, and other points in the County afford transportation by this means of travel.

Its water facilities are supplied by wells, springs, canals, and rivers. Natural gas is not found within the County. Light, heat and electric power are furnished at low rates, and fuel is secured from the anthracite fields in nearby Counties.

The natural resources of the County are slate, cement, limestone, hematite ores, clays, etc. Sixty-five per cent. of all the slate produced in America comes from the slate quarries of this County.

The principal industries are the manufacturing of slate, cement, iron and steel, silk, hosiery, belting and machinery.

Industrial advantages offered are in the form of good industrial sites and guarantee funds. All kinds of skilled and unskilled labor are available, but no surplus of female labor is reported. Rents are normal and the tax rate about the average.

The principal organizations reported are the Easton Board of Trade, and the Board of Trade of the borough of Bangor.

NORTHUMBERLAND COUNTY.

The county of Northumberland was formed in the year 1782 from parts of the counties of Berks, Bedford, Cumberland, Lancaster and Northampton, and at the last decennial census reported a population of 111,420. The principal centers of population are the boroughs of Sunbury, Shamokin, Mt. Carmel, Milton and Northumberland, Sunbury being the county seat and having a population of approximately 14,000. More than the average percentage of the population of the county are foreigners.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania system, the Philadelphia & Reading Railway, and the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad, and its trolley facilities by a number of companies operating in the larger boroughs and towns of the county. Natural gas is not found within the county, but light, heat and electric power are furnished at normal rates. Its fuel supply is secured largely from the anthracite fields within the boundaries of the county. An abundant supply of good water for domestic and manufacturing purposes is available.

Its natural resources are rich farm lands, anthracite coal, shale, and lime. Its principal industries are agricultural, mining, car shops, silk mills, iron and steel.

Skilled and unskilled labor is available, but no surplus of female labor is reported. Rents and taxes are about the average, but no inducements in the form of free sites, exemption from taxation, or financial assistance are reported as being offered for manufacturing industries.

Its principal commercial organizations are the Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce of the various boroughs and towns throughout the county.

PERRY COUNTY.

The county of Perry was formed in the year 1820 from part of the county of Cumberland and at the census of 1910 reported a population of 24,936. A small percentage of the population of the county are foreigners. Its principal centers of population are the boroughs of Newport, Duncannon, New Bloomfield and Marysville, New Bloomfield being the county seat.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad, with other branch roads to different parts of the county. The only trolley facility reported in the county is in the borough of Marysville which affords connection by this means of travel at the city of Harrisburg with other lines to various towns throughout the section, and with the Philadelphia & Reading Railway which affords communication with the northeastern and eastern part of the State. Water for domestic and manufacturing purposes is found in abundance. Natural gas is not found within the county. Its fuel supply is secured from the anthracite and bituminous coal fields in other sections of the State.

Its principal natural resources is rich farm lands, and its principal industries are agricultural pursuits, the manufacture of iron and steel and car shops.

Skilled and unskilled labor is available, but no surplus of female labor is reported. Rents and taxes are normal, but no inducements in the way of free sites, exemption from taxation, or financial assistance are reported as being offered for manufacturing industries.

The principal commercial organizations are the Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce of the different boroughs and towns throughout the county.

PHILADELPHIA COUNTY.

The county of Philadelphia was formed in the year 1682, and was one of the three original provinces of Pennsylvania, and at the census of 1910, a population of 1,549,000 was reported. The city of Philadelphia is co-extensive with the county, and is the third largest city in the United States. About the average percentage of the population of the county are foreigners.

All the principal railroads of the eastern part of the country center in the city of Philadelphia, and the whole county is practically covered by electric railways which also afford connection with the numerous cities and towns in the surrounding counties. Transportation by water is afforded by means of the Delaware River, which affords an outlet to all parts of the world, Philadelphia being one of the principal ports of entry in the United States.

Its water supply is secured from the Delaware River, and extensive filtration plants have been erected in recent years, affording an abundant supply of good water for the whole city. Light, heat, electric power and manufactured gas are furnished at normal rates.

Its principal industries are the manufacture of textiles, carpets, locomotives, and almost every known article of commerce. Skilled and unskilled labor is available, as is also a normal supply of female labor.

Numerous commercial organizations are found within the county, among the principal ones being the Bourse, and the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce.

PIKE COUNTY.

The County of Pike, having a population of 8,033 was formed in the year 1814, from a part of the territory composing the County of Wayne. The County Seat which is the principal center of population, is the town of Milford, with a population of approximately 1,000, the county having a very small percentage of foreigners.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Erie Railroad. No trolley facilities are reported but contemplated charters have been granted and ordinances passed, creating rights of way.

Excellent supplies of spring water, unlimited in quantity, are available, and fuel is supplied from woodlands and the anthracite fields in that section of the State.

The natural resources of the County, are principally timber and bluestone, the principal industries being the manufacture of lumber and the manufacture of food products.

Good industrial sites are available, a number of undeveloped water power sites being found in the County, which might be utilized for industrial purposes. The material progress of the County is retarded largely by lack of transportation facilities, which will be remedied to a great extent when the contemplated trolley roads have been completed.

No commercial organizations or boards of trades are reported. Information with regard to the resources of the County, being furnished by the local officers of the Borough of Milford.

POTTER COUNTY.

The County of Potter was formed in the year 1804, from part of the County of Lycoming and at the last census reported a population of 29,729. Approximately fifteen per cent. of the population are foreigners. The principal towns are the boroughs of Coudersport and Austin, Coudersport being the county seat and having a population of 3,000.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by connections with the Buffalo & Susquehanna Railroad, the Pennsylvania Railroad, and the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad systems, no trolley facilities being reported. Its water facilities are excellent and an abundant supply of natural gas is found in the county, and light, heat and electric power are furnished at normal rates. Fuel is supplied in abundance at moderate rates.

Its natural resources are its forests and farm lands but these resources have not been fully developed. Supplies of male and female labor are available, rents are low and taxes are about the average.

Its principal industries are farming, lumber manufacturing, metal working and coal mining. Good industrial sites are available but no inducements are offered to new industries.

SCHUYLKILL COUNTY.

The County of Schuylkill was formed in the year 1811, from parts of the County of Berks and Northampton, and at the last census reported a population of 207,894. Its principal center of population is the city of Pottsville with several large boroughs throughout the County. Ten per cent. of the population of the County are reported as being foreigners. The Pennsylvania Railroad, Philadelphia & Reading Railway, and the Lehigh Valley Railroad offer splendid railroad facilities and connections with the eastern markets. Its trolley facilities are afforded by the Eastern Pennsylvania Railways Company.

Water facilities are good. Natural gas is not found in the County, but light, heat and power are furnished at reasonable rates by electric companies, and fuel is obtained from the anthracite coal fields within the County.

The principal industries are the mining of coal, railroad shops, hosiery and knit goods, boots and shoes, iron and steel industries, wood working plants, and leather manufacturing.

The principal natural resource is anthracite coal.

Skilled and unskilled labor is available but no surplus of female labor is reported.

Rents and taxes are normal and the rate of wages about the average.

The leading commercial organizations reported are the Merchants Association, and the Boards of Trade of the city of Pottsville, with similar organizations in the various boroughs throughout the County.

SNYDER COUNTY.

Snyder County, having a population of 16,800, was formed in the year 1855, from a part of the territory then composing the County of Union. Its County Seat is Middleburg, having a population of approximately 2,000. At the Borough of Selinsgrove, is located Susquehanna University one of the principal educational institutions of the central part of the State.

Railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania, and the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Companies, a four mile trolley line connecting the Borough of Selinsgrove with the Borough of Sunbury in Northumberland County.

Natural gas is not found in the county, and water is supplied from the Susquehanna River, Penns Creek, and Middle Creek. Fuel is supplied from the nearby anthracite fields, and from the bituminous coal fields, not more than seventy-five to one hundred miles distant. Light, heat, and electric power, are furnished in the several Boroughs, at normal rates.

The natural resources are fertile farm lands, and fruit raising is carried on to a considerable extent, large quantities of small fruits, peaches, and apples, being shipped from this section.

The manufacturing industries, are tanning, brick manufacture, shoe, and silk industries.

Skilled and unskilled labor is available, many mechanics being compelled to go elsewhere for employment. Rents and taxes are low, and there is a general market for anything, chiefly farm implements and supplies.

The leading commercial organizations, are the Middleburg Board of Trade, Selinsgrove Board of Trade, and the Beaver Springs Board of Trade.

SOMERSET COUNTY.

The County of Somerset was formed in the year 1795 from a part what was at that time the County of Bedford, and at the last decennial census, reported a population of 67,717.

The principal centers of population, are the towns of Windber, Meyersdale, and Somerset, which is the County Seat. The County has about the average number of foreigners.

The railroad facilities are afforded by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and the Pittsburgh, Westmoreland and Somerset Railroad, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad affording connections with the Pennsylvania Railroad at the city of Johnstown. Trolley railways are in process of construction between Johnstown and Rockwood.

Excellent water facilities are found throughout the County, and many small streams furnish an abundant supply of water for domestic and manufacturing purposes. Natural gas is not reported, and fuel is plentifully supplied from the bituminous fields of the County.

The natural resources of the County are, soft coal and lumber, the County of Somerset being one of the largest bituminous fields of the State.

Its principal industries are the mining and shipping of coal; the manufacture of coke, together with its by-products; planing mill products; iron foundries, etc.

Skilled and unskilled labor is available, and in some of the Boroughs mentioned, a surplus of female labor is found. Rents are moderate, taxes about the average rate, and hearty co-operation is afforded industrial enterprises, but no special inducements are offered.

The leading commercial organization of the County as reported, is the Board of Trade of the Borough of Somerset.

SULLIVAN COUNTY.

Sullivan County was formed in the year 1847, from a part of the County of Lycoming and at the last census reported a population of 11,293. The County Seat is the Borough of Laporte with other small towns throughout the County.

Its railroad facilities are limited, its only railroad being the Williamsport & North Branch Railroad which forms a connection with the Philadelphia & Reading Railway system. No trolley roads are reported. Water is supplied from wells, springs and mountain streams. Natural gas is not found in the County. Good coal of a semi-anthracite nature is found in the County in abundance.

Its natural resources are timber, coal, and farm lands, but these resources have not been fully developed. Its principal industries are coal mining, farming, lumbering, and tanning leather.

Labor does not appear to be plentiful, rents are low and taxes above the normal. Good industrial sites are available but no special inducements are offered for new industries. With abundant supplies of fuel, lumber, etc., it appears that advantageous conditions exist for manufacturing enterprises along lines mentioned.

SUSQUEHANNA COUNTY.

The County of Susquehanna was incorporated in the year 1810, from part of the County of Luzerne, and at the last decennial census reported a population of 37,746. The principal center of population is Montrose the County Seat, reporting a population of 2,000. A very small per cent. of the population of the County are foreigners. Its railroad facilities are afforded by a branch of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, Erie Railroad and the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad Companies, the County being traversed by an electric railway now building, from Scranton to Binghamton.

Its water facilities are good. Natural gas is not found within the County, and fuel is supplied from the nearby anthracite fields. Light, heat and electric power are furnished at normal rates.

Its natural resources are agricultural, together with timber found within the County, but its resources are not fully developed. Its principal industries are the manufacture of lumber, machinery, cut glass and farming.

Skilled and unskilled labor is available as is also female labor which may be secured from the agricultural sections of the County. Rents are normal and taxes about the average. The principal commercial organization reported is the Board of Trade of the Borough of Montrose.

TIOGA COUNTY.

The County of Tioga was formed in the year 1804, from a part of the County of Lycoming, and reported at the last decennial census, a population of 42,829. Its principal centers of population are the Boroughs of Wellsbor and Blossburg, Wellsboro being the county seat and having a population of approximately 3,133. A percentage above the average of the population of the county are foreigners.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Erie Railroad Company, and the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Company, but no trolley facilities are reported. An abundant supply of good water for domestic and manufacturing purposes, is available. Natural gas is not found within the county, but light, heat and electric power are furnished at low rates. Large quantities of fuel are available, being secured from the coal fields of the county, this coal being recognized as above the average for steam purposes.

The natural resources of the county are coal, clay, and farm lands, but these resources have not been fully developed. The principal industries are the mining of coal, agricultural pursuits, tanneries, and shirt factories.

Opportunities for new businesses are very good, and industrial sites are available, the land and buildings in some instances being given for manufacturing purposes. Rents and taxes are comparatively low, and skilled and unskilled labor is reported scarce, but of female labor, there is an apparent surplus. Excellent opportunities are offered to manufacturing enterprises employing girls.

UNION COUNTY.

The County of Union, having a population of 16,249, was formed in the year 1813, and was originally a part of the territory composing the County of Northumberland. The county seat is the Borough of Lewisburg, with an approximate population of 3,300, which with the Borough of Mifflinburg, comprise the principal centers of population in the county.

An abundant supply of good mountain water is available and fuel is furnished largely from the anthracite fields in the nearby counties.

The principal industry is farming, the county being noted for its splendid agricultural territory, its valleys being among the most fertile in the Commonwealth. Manufacturing enterprises to a limited extent are carried on in the Boroughs of Lewisburg and Mifflinburg, the principal products being chairs, hosiery and woolen goods, wagons and buggies.

Bucknell University, located at Lewisburg, is one of the principal educational institutions of the State, and the public schools are up to the general standard.

The supply of labor is limited, and the rates of wages about the average. Rents and taxes are normal, and no inducements are offered for manufacturing enterprises.

VENANGO COUNTY.

The County of Venango was formed in the year 1800, from parts of the Counties of Allegheny and Lycoming, and at the last decennial census, reported a population of 56,359. The principal centers of population are the cities of Franklin and Oil City, the city of Franklin being the county seat and having a population of approximately 10,000. About the average percentage of the population of the county are foreigners.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania Railroad system, and the Erie Railroad, together with the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railway. Electric railways afford this means of travel locally in and about the various cities and boroughs of the county.

An abundant supply of good water for domestic and manufacturing purposes is found within the county, and natural gas in abundance. Light, heat and electric power is furnished at normal rates. Its fuel supply other than gas, is secured largely from the bituminous coal fields of the western part of the State.

Its natural resources are a rich farming country, oil and gas. Its principal industries are agricultural pursuits, the production of oil and gas, the manufacture of iron and steel. Skilled and unskilled labor is available, but no surplus of female labor is reported. Rents and taxes are normal. No inducements in the form of free sites, exemption from taxation or financial assistance are reported as being offered for manufacturing enterprises.

Its commercial organizations are the Boards of Trade and the Chambers of Commerce of the various cities and towns throughout the county.

WARREN COUNTY.

The County of Warren was formed in the year 1800, from parts of the Counties of Allegheny and Lycoming, and at the last decennial census reported a population of 39,573. Its principal center of population is the Borough of Warren, which is the county seat, with a population of 11,000. About the average percentage of the population of the county are foreigners.

Its railroad facilities are afforded largely by the Philadelphia & Erie Railroad, a part of the Pennsylvania Railroad system, and its trolley facilities by electric railways in and about the Borough of Warren.

An abundant supply of good water is available, and natural gas is found within the county. Light, heat and electric power is furnished at normal rates, and its fuel supply other than gas, is secured largely from the bituminous coal fields in the western part of the State.

Its natural resources are a rich farming community, oil and gas. Its principal industries are agricultural pursuits, production of oil and gas, and the manufacture of iron and steel.

Skilled and unskilled labor is available, but no surplus of female labor is reported. Rents and taxes are normal. No inducements in the way of exemption from taxation, financial assistance or free sites are reported as being offered for industrial activities.

Its principal commercial organization is the Board of Trade of the Borough of Warren.

WASHINGTON COUNTY.

The County of Washington was formed in the year 1781, from part of the County of Westmoreland and at the last census reported a population of 143,680. A very small percentage of the population of the county are foreigners. The principal center of population is the Borough of Washington with approximately 25,000 inhabitants.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Waynesburg & Washington Railroad, the Pennsylvania lines, west, and the Baltimore & Ohio lines west; its trolley facilities by the Pittsburgh Railways Company, local and interurban.

Its water supply is secured from springs, wells and streams. Natural gas is found in abundance and supplied at very low rates. Soft coal for fuel is supplied from the numerous bituminous mines in the county.

Its natural resources are coal, gas, oil, and farm lands. Its principal industries are the mining of coal, the production of oil and gas, the manufacture of clay products, paint, glass and steel.

Opportunities for new businesses are excellent and good industrial sites are available, but nothing in the way of bonuses, rebates or exemption from taxes, etc., is offered.

Skilled and unskilled labor is available and a surplus of female labor is found, only about two per cent. of the available supply being used. Rents are moderate, and the rate of wages about the average. The tax rate is reported below the normal.

The leading commercial organization reported is the Washington Board of Trade.

WAYNE COUNTY.

The County of Wayne was incorporated in the year 1793, from a part of the territory which was then the County of Northampton, and had at the last census, a population of approximately 30,000, a very small number of foreigners being found among this number. The principal center of population is the town of Honesdale, the County Seat, which has a population of 2,900.

Its railroad facilities are the Delaware & Hudson, and the Erie Railroad Companies, these companies connecting with lines to all prominent points east and west. No trolley facilities are reported for this county.

Its water facilities are exceptionally good, being supplied by pure mountain streams and lakes. Natural gas is not produced in this county, but light, heat and electric power are furnished at comparatively low rates. Fuel is secured from the anthracite regions in close proximity.

The natural resources are water power, developed and possible of development, and a good agricultural section. Its principal industries are farming, glass cutting, the manufacture of cotton, silk and woolen goods and shoes.

Inducements for manufacturing industries are offered in the form of free sites and financial assistance.

Labor of all kinds is available, taxes are normal, and rents reasonable.

The commercial organizations reported are the Business Men's Association, and the Board of Trade of the Borough of Honesdale.

WESTMORELAND COUNTY.

The County of Westmoreland was formed in the year 1773 from part of the County of Bedford, and in 1785 part of the purchase of 1784 was added thereto. At the last decennial census the county reported a population of 241,304. More than twenty-five per cent. of the population of the county is reported as being foreigners. Its principal centers of population are the City of Greensburg, the Boroughs of Monessen and New Kensington, Greensburg being the County Seat with a population of approximately 13,000.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad and the Pennsylvania Railroad, and its trolley facilities by the Pittsburgh Railways Company, the West Penn Traction Company, and the West Side Belt Railways Company, which afford excellent facilities by this means of travel to all parts of the county.

Natural gas is supplied to the various towns throughout the county at the average rates. Fuel, in the form of bituminous coal, is supplied from the various coal fields of the county, and those of the several nearby counties. Light, heat and electric power are furnished at comparatively low rates.

The natural resources are coal in an almost unlimited quantity, and good farm lands. Its principal industries are the mining of coal, manufacture of aluminum products, glass, tin plate, railroad equipment, white lead, iron and steel products.

Good industrial sites are available and every fair inducement is offered for location of manufacturing plants.

Skilled and unskilled labor is available, but no surplus of female labor is reported, and rents and taxes are about the average.

Its principal commercial organizations are the Boards of Trade of the various boroughs and towns throughout the county.

WYOMING COUNTY.

The County of Wyoming, having a population of 15,509, was formed in the year 1842 from a part of the territory of what was originally the County of Luzerne. The County Seat is Tunkhannock, which is the principal center of population, having approximately 2,500 inhabitants, a small percentage of the population being foreigners.

Railroad facilities are afforded through the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, which traverses the county, but no trolley facilities are reported.

An abundant supply of water is available, and light, heat and electric power are furnished at rates which are slightly above the average. Fuel is obtained from the anthracite fields of the nearby counties.

The principal industry is farming, woolen mills, tanneries, other small manufacturing industries being found in the county.

Labor is available at normal rates of wages, and the tax rate is low. Good industrial sites are available, and stock in good manufacturing companies finds a ready sale.

YORK COUNTY.

The County of York was formed in the year 1749, from a part of the County of Lancaster, and at the last decennial census, reported a population of 136,405. The principal center of population is the City of York, which is the County Seat and having a population of about 55,000 with numerous other large and prosperous municipalities throughout the county. An unusually small percentage of the population of the county are foreigners.

Its railroad facilities are exceptionally good, the county being traversed by the Northern Central Railway, (part of the great Pennsylvania Railroad system), while another branch of this system affords connection with Philadelphia and the east. The Western Maryland Railroad and part of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad systems, traverse the county and afford access to the great slate quarries of Southern Pennsylvania, as well as furnishing another route to the City of Baltimore. Trolley facilities are afforded by city and suburban electric railways which traverse the City of York and afford communication with distant points throughout the county. The companies have in operation ninety miles of track, twenty in the City of York, and seventy along suburban lines.

Water facilities cannot be excelled but natural gas is not found within the county. Electric light, heat and power are supplied at normal rates, the famous York Haven

Power Plant being located within the bounds of the county. Fuel is secured from the different Pennsylvania coal fields.

The natural resources of the county are agricultural, lime stone, sand, trap rock, clay, etc. Its principal industries are the manufacture of automobiles, cigars, boots and shoes, machinery, cars and engines.

Skilled and unskilled labor is available, but no surplus of female labor is reported. Rents and taxes are comparatively low, and good industrial sites are available, but no financial inducements are offered for new manufacturing enterprises.

The principal commercial organizations are the York Chamber of Commerce, the Manufacturers Association, and the Engineers Society of the City of York, with other similar organizations in the numerous towns throughout the county.
